

VdGS-NE Early Winter Workshop

Sunday, December 13,
2020
3:00-4:30 PM

Distant Cousins A Virtual Class

Amy Domingues, Presenter
Mai-Lan Broekman Coordinator

Registration Deadline, December 3

Richard Dering, Peter Philips, John Bull, William Brade, Thomas Simpson, and William Young were all 17th century English composers who left their homeland for various reasons, including the pressure of religious differences or to search for better career prospects. In this 90min virtual class, participants will explore viol repertoire from these composers through a combination of lecture and specially recorded 4-5 part consort play-along selections. We will compare these lesser known but great composers' compositional styles, output, and the effects of growing Italian musical influences in the mid 17th century. The play-along selections are suitable for intermediate players, but players of any level will welcome the chance to learn more about these composers and delve into their repertoire. Sheet music links will be sent in advance.

Amy Domingues (MM Early Music, Peabody Conservatory) performs on viola da gamba and baroque cello with groups as varied as Sonnambula, The Folger Consort, Hesperus, The Washington Bach Consort, and Corda Nova Baroque. She is an avid educator, maintaining a private studio of cello and gamba students in her Washington DC home. She has served as faculty at the Madison Early Music Festival, the VdGSA Conclave, numerous workshops, and is the Executive Director of the Greater Washington-Baltimore chapter of the VdGSA. Ms. Domingues appears on over 70 recordings, spanning genres from indie rock to classical and experimental, and plays amplified gamba in the experimental/neo-classical duo Domingues & Kane.
