L'Amorosa Ero: Madrigals from 16th c. Italy

presented by Lisa Terry

Coordinator, Karen Burciaga

Registration Deadline, May 10

L'Amorosa Ero is a wonderful collection of eighteen 16th-century Italian madrigals for 4 parts, all composed on the same poem "Ero così dicea." The reason for the collection was kind of a competition by a member of the aristocracy in Brescia who wrote the poem, composed one madrigal himself and challenged other composers to do him better. There are a lot of famous names in the collection (Gastoldi, Marenzio, Luzzaschi, Striggio, Merulo). We will spend a little time understanding the meaning of the text so that experiencing each setting (we will explore six of the pieces) will be all the richer.

Especially for Intermediate and above; auditors of all levels welcome! Class will be recorded and made available to registrants for one month.

Bio

Lisa Terry is an avid chamber music performer and soloist on viola da gamba and violoncello. From her home base in New York City, she performs with Parthenia, Dryden Ensemble, Lyra Consort, Pegasus Early Music and TENET. She is principal cellist and viol soloist with Tempesta di Mare, Philadelphia's baroque orchestra. Lisa was a founding member of ARTEK, and has performed with the New York Philharmonic, New York City Opera, Juilliard Opera Orchestra, Orchestra of St. Luke's and Concert Royal. She has appeared to great acclaim as soloist in the Passions of J.S. Bach throughout her career, and she serves the Viola da Gamba Society of America as Past-President. She is often heard in dance bands for Country Dance New York.
